

SHEEP SHOW AT FAIR IS TO BE RECORD-BREAKER

BIG STATE SHOW OF SHROPSHIRE TO BE HELD HERE

Exhibits of Three Other Breeds To Be Held As in Other Years

Fayette County will be the capital of Ohio's sheep world, come the last week of July and the annual Fayette County Fair.

This was assured when negotiations for holding the big annual Ohio Shropshire Sheep Show at the Fayette County Fair were sealed by a letter from Julia M. Wade of Lafayette, Ind., placing the support of the American Shropshire Association behind the exhibit here.

How many entries the endorsement of the state and national Shropshire associations would bring to the show here is conjectural in view of gasoline rationing, tire conservation and farm labor shortages. But, Russell Beatty, president of the Fayette County Shepherd's Club, "guessed" there would be at least 20 exhibitors with an average of 5 entries apiece.

The show is to be held in the new livestock exhibit barn in which the Ohio Hereford Association held its state show last year. Members of the Fair Board and Hereford breeders here expressed the belief that the Hereford association would have held its big state show here again this year had the barn facilities been adequate for both the sheep and cattle shows of such size. And, since only one could be accommodated, the board agreed to give the shepherds their turn this year. Hope was expressed that the time would come in the not too distant future when both shows, and others too, could be held at the same time.

The Shropshire sheep show will be the same as the big state exhibit which would have been held as a feature of the Ohio State Fair. But, since that has been knocked out for the duration, it is to be held here, it was explained.

The Fayette County Shepherds' Club has been the keystone in the plan for holding the state sheep show here. Beatty, W. W. Montgomery, Willard Bitzer and Chester James made the proposal to the Fair Board and it was accepted with the provision that the national and state associations collaborate and lend their support. This both of these associations have now assured. The Fair Board voted $200 for premiums and that was matched by the national association. The state association added $50.

The state Shropshire show, it was emphasized, is in addition to the regular sheep show. At least three other breeds—Suffolk, Southdown and Dorset—will have classes and sizeable entries are anticipated.

The state and national Shropshire association rules and regulations will be followed. They restrict entries to Ohio-bred sheep and prizes are awarded on that basis. The regular county show, it was said, will be "open to the world."

Entries are expected from many parts of Ohio and from several other states.

Nine classes and two championships have been arranged tentatively for the state Shropshire show. They include aged ram, yearling ram, ram lamb, pen of three ram lambs, aged ewe, yearling ewe, ewe lamb, pen of three ewe lambs and exhibitor's flock. Although it was made plain that this program was subject to change, it was indicated that the Fair show for Shropshires would parallel the state line-up. The state show also would have the customary championships for ram and ewe.

Since sheep are coming into such importance in Fayette County, members of the Fair Board were jubilant over the prospects of such a show this year.

SOYBEAN PLANTING LATER THAN USUAL

Soybean planting in this part of Ohio is expected to be somewhat later than usual, inasmuch as planting usually takes place immediately after corn is planted.

However, a few fields of soy beans have already been planted in the community.

Corn planting being much later than usual, as result of wet weather, the soy bean planting will be correspondingly late.

Dull Livestock Markets In Prospect, Is Prediction

Heavy movements of hogs to markets now are viewed as a depressant to present prices but as a stimulant to prices in the future by Frank DeWitt, veteran livestock buyer here. He predicts in the following article, in which the opinions expressed are the writer's own and do not necessarily reflect the views of this newspaper, that a period of dull and uninteresting market situation are in prospect for the immediate future.

By FRANK DEWITT

Receipts of hogs in May so far are the heaviest in volume in nine years. Uncertainty among farmers by threats of further price cuts for meats, and the growing shortage of corn, floods over some of the principle corn producing areas, are given for the heavy movements of hogs to market, all of which is now depressing, but in the near future will act as a stimulant to higher prices.

Prices are now down to or around the level that probably would have been the ceiling if the OPA had decided to place a ceiling on live animals. With the government peg under the market about $1 below prevailing prices it would be no surprise to see prices stabilized at present levels. The corn-hog ratio is now about 13 to 1 which is the lowest it has been in a long time.

As far as cattle are concerned there are few choices going to market. Receipts were slightly higher for the week and shipping orders smaller which made for a rather slow trade.

Eastern order buyers bought sparingly and the big packers refused to bid up prices. Bulls were weak and the demand was insufficient to provide a steady outlay. As a result the most of them moved at $13.25 to $13.75 and have lost their recent premium position over heavy sausage offerings.

The whole livestock picture looks like we are in for a spell of dull uninteresting markets for the immediate future. A great deal of uncertainty is bound to be noted until the OPA further clarifies its position in respect to ceilings, etc.

CONTINUED RAIN IS THREAT TO COUNTRY'S CORN

Small Grain and Grass Benefit, However, Most Farmers Agree

Fayette County needs a week or two of rain-free weather, and soon, or there may not be enough corn to feed out the record crop of pigs now coming on.

That was the consensus of farmers from one end of the county to the other as they looked up at the solid gray clouds all week and paced restlessly about their farms where everything has been mud for more than a month.

The consuming fear of them all is that unless they get their corn planted within the next week or so an early frost might get them. They must have some decent weather to get their ground in order for the seed, too, and that can't be done in day, they say. One other big worry is that most of them have bought their seed and it is too late now to change from late maturing varieties to the early ripening types.

Homer Smith, who has won about as many show ribbons as the next around here, recalled that in 1938 Fayette County went through a cold, wet, late spring similar to this one. Little corn, he said, was planted then before June. Then, taking a philosophical view of the situation, he added that most of it matured before frost. He pointed out that most of the common varieties of open pollinated corn mature in from 120 to 150 days, depending to a great extent on the kind of growing weather. At that rate, frost in early October would nip considerable corn. However, other farmers point out that some of the new hybrids will mature early and the farmers who have that seed may well pat themselves on the back. On one other thing they all agreed—there is not much that can be done about the situation except lose no time when the weather is right.

While the farmers were tearing their hair over corn prospects—and that is Fayette County's mainstay in livestock feeding operations—they could get some consolation in the way their oats are coming. It was pointed out. More farmers have more oats this year than for some time, casual surveys indicate, because

DOWN ON THE FARM

By THOMAS E. BERRY

BIG GRASS

There is some of it, as this is written, and by the time it gets into print, there will be a lot more, on the farms, where the stock was not turned out until it got a good start. The way to have big grass is to have it all year and the way to do this is to do the simple things that we already know. Of course one of them is giving it time to get the manufacturing plant—the leaves—well established; so that when an animal bites off part of them, there is still enough to make a lot more carbohydrates, sugars and starches and some protein, the chief constituents of grass.

RUN FURROWS ON THE CONTOUR

That's another simple and inexpensive thing that you can do, to increase the carrying capacity of your pastures. These furrows run at intervals of about 15 or 20 feet, around the slope, and on the contour, check the run off after heavy rains so that more of it goes into the soil.

LOCATING THE CONTOUR FURROWS

This is very important. You can't tell by your eye, where they should be run, especially if the horizon is sloping, and it often is. The thing to do is to call your county agent or soil conservationist in your community, or your teacher of vocational agriculture, and you will learn where you can get the necessary survey service, free of charge. Your federal government has this service all set up, and on a national basis, so use it, and increase the carrying capacity of your pastures.

IMPROVING THE QUALITY OF PASTURES

Contour pastures that enable the pasture plants to have more water, during the growing season, and as simple a thing as applying about two so many fields of winter-killed wheat have been sowed to oats after government insurance was collected.

The rains have also helped the pastures and other grass crops.

WHAT HAVE I DONE TO GAIN SUCH POPULARITY

MORE POULTRY MEAT IS ESSENTIAL

THE increased need for poultry meat—both turkey and chicken—calls for the best methods in getting birds ready for market, as quickly as possible. Good management, plus the efficient use of nutritionally correct rations, is the answer.

Use the Master Mix feeding programs as your guide to efficient production. And, for outstanding, profitable results, use high grass gets tough and unpalatable, and is not eaten readily, while the lower grass is grazed too closely for maximum yields. It sounds sensible doesn't it? The mowing has a tendency to keep the grass at about the same height.

SCATTER THE "MEADOW" POSIES

This is an approved pasture practice, too. Many of the droppings of cattle are left in piles, and the maximum fertility is not utilized. Doing as simple a thing as running over the pasture with a light harrow will scatter these piles, and at the same time give the pasture some beneficial cultivation, and encourage the growth of lateral buds and new seedling from the previous crop.

GOOD OATS CROP APPEARS CERTAIN

Rainfall Sufficient To Insure Good Stand

At the present time a good oats crop in Fayette County appears to be almost certain, although the outlook can still be marred by unfavorable weather. With the greatest acreage of oats in many years, due to planting where wheat was torn up, and with sufficient rainfall to insure a good stand and continued growth, the crop is making headway toward a heavy crop. Because the crop was almost a failure for a number of years, oats has been a very minor crop in the community in recent years.

69 Graduated From Four County High Schools

SENIOR CLASSES ARE SMALLER IN 4 HIGH SCHOOLS

Graduates Face Situation Unlike That for Many Years in Past

The 38 girls and 31 boys of this year's graduating classes of the four Fayette County high schools face a situation unlike that in many years as they go out to make their way in a war-torn World. W. J. Hilly, the superintendent of the county schools, said as he reemphasized that "it pays to be prepared."

Commencement festivities, with their admittedly busy rounds of school affairs, came to a close when graduates were handed their diplomas this week. There had previously been the "class nights" and plays and Baccalaureate services along with many other less formal functions thrown in between times.

The classes this year were smaller than those of several years past, but there is no very good explanation in the opinion of the superintendent.

While the war admittedly has been a disturbing influence, the records show that a few of the boys have left the class rooms to enter the service. Most of them were too young. The shortage of farm labor has drawn some away from school periodically, but again the records show the great majority of the seniors went on to finish out their schooling. Absences have had some effect on grades but most of them went on to the end. Supt. Hilly commented "they exercised wisdom in completing the high school course."

Not many of the boys are expected to join the armed forces because most of them come from farm homes and farm boys have been given a deferred status by the Selective Service Board. The desire of the farm boys to get in uniform has been in the very atmosphere of all the schools, but most of them are expected to choke back their desires for the more adventurous roles in the war and stick to the less romantic task of producing food.

Commencement exercises at Jeffersonville, Madison Mills and Good Hope were held Thursday night with those at Bloomingburg on Friday night.

Jeffersonville
The biggest class was graduated from Jeffersonville High School. In it there were 18 girls and 10 boys:

Lowell E. Willis, Roger Bosco, Dorothy Warnock, Keith Zimmerman, Ruby Bentley, Marvin M. DeMent, Alpha Jean Allen, Margaret Binegar, Nancy Crawford, Margaret Fisher, Chauncey Hahn, Orlyn Harris, Dorothy Lou Lanum, Ruth Patton, Neva Lee Roush, Alfred Smith, Anna Smith, Caroline Smith, Wayne Spengler, Ronald Stephens, Beatrice Stephenson, Esther Straley, Martha Straley, Edward Tarlton, Grace Wade, Gwen Whitmer, Rachel Woodruff and Ada Whitmer.

Bloomingburg
The second largest class this year is at Bloomingburg where eight girls and nine boys will be graduated:

Wayne High School
Seven girls and five boys were given their diplomas at Wayne High School in Good Hope:

Imogene Finley, Mary Frances Palmer, Virginia Rea, Willa Jane Sollars, Ruth Yerian, Jane Ann Dunn, Robert Augustus, Mac Smith, Junior Holdren, Wendell Hoppes, Johnnie Brown and Norma Jean Herron.

Madison Mills
The senior class at Madison Mills, with its five girls and seven boys, was the same size as that at Good Hope:

BLOOMINGBURG GRADUATES 17 FRIDAY NIGHT

Memorial Trophy Case Is Presented To School At Exercises

Seventeen graduates of the Bloomingburg High School, following their class motto of "Forward Ever, Backward Never," received their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises of the school, held Friday night in the auditorium and attended by an audience that filled the auditorium to capacity.

The address was delivered by Dr. E. E. Lewis, of Ohio State University, who talked on the subject, "Looking to the Future," and he spoke of the present world conditions and the peace that is to come, stressing the important place that the youths of today must have in helping fashion the new world.

First honors of the class went to Edna Ann Emery, class secretary, and second award was made to Charles Andrews, class president. Supt. G. H. Biddle presented the awards.

A beautiful trophy case was presented to the school by the class as a memorial to Lloyd Merriman, who died last year, and in the case were trophies won while Lloyd was a member of the class.

The class had also presented an electric clock to the school, and this was placed in the auditorium Friday.

Omar Rapp, president of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Mrs. Elton Elliott presented the Eighth Grade certificates to those promoted.

The Boys' High School Band, under the direction of Mrs. Ellen Pensyl, played at the beginning, and Mrs. Maude Howland at the piano and Raymond Scott, violin, played the processional and recessional.

Hugh Keith Johnson sang "Little Boy Blue," and Anna Mae Ryan sang "Gray Days." Rev. J. H. Baughn offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

The girls in the class wore white caps and gowns, the boys blue caps and gowns.

Blue iris and yellow tulips formed the decorations, carrying out the class colors of blue and gold.

Scholastic Recognition Won By 27 WHS Pupils

Twenty-seven of the 140 Washington C. H. High School students who took the state scholarship tests on April 30 have come through with flying colors, according to word just received by W. F. Rettig, WHS principal.

The students were classified in three sections—their ranking in the Ohio State University district, of which WHS is a part, in the first division; in the state in the first division and also in the state regardless of classification. All of the schools are put into one of three classes, based on the enrollment of the students, and WHS is in Division I. Most of the students did not receive a classification in the state in Division I or in the state regardless of classification.

Certificates of award will be presented to each student attaining one of these goals next week, Rettig said. These certificates will be given in all three classifications.

Following are the results: biology, Flora Loraine Allen, district rank 14; elementary algebra, Alvin Anderson, district rank 8, Robert Bostwick and Byron Hinton, district rank 9; Latin I, Helen Irene Gerhardt, district rank 3, Mildred McFadden, district rank 5; world history, William Barton Montgomery, district rank 10, and Harry Vernon Flint, district rank 11; English 10, Norma Burr

On the Farm By Thomas E. Berry

for your livestock by running temporary fences through your pasture fields and pasturing them in strips instead of grazing the fields all at the same time? If one thinks a little while about this, the reason is evident. All of the field is not closely grazed and when stock goes into the second strip they have an abundance of big grass; and then the change is good for them; it helps their mental attitude, and that is very important for any livestock or even for man.

When the stock is turned back into the first strip they find a lot of very good young growth, that they enjoy eating, and the mental attitude is again "given a lift" as someone has well expressed it.

The temporary fence doesn't cost much and it doesn't take very much time to put up. If you are pasturing only cattle, three barbs tacked to strong posts will function very well as a temporary fence.

ALFALFA HAY FOR CHICKENS—I just learned on the radio that protein supplements for poultry will be very hard to get next fall and that the percentages of these feeds in the ration for laying hens will have to be far below normal. A very good solution for this problem was given, too. It is second and third cuttings of alfalfa hay fed in racks, or ground fine and mixed with the ration in the self feeders.

Be sure to get second and third cuttings of hay, for the percentage of digestible nutrients is much higher in them, and then there is more leafy material that increases the palatability.

Buy only bright, green colored hay, too, for it is the highest in carotin and essential vitamins.

One more suggestion, please. Don't put this off but order this hay just as soon as you can. You will be sure to get it if you do this, and then if you put off ordering it, or cutting it especially for your laying hens, if you have your own alfalfa, you may not do it at all; something else may drive out, the time you intended to give for this will be used for something else. (Did you ever notice that the things you put off you may never do at all? Socrates was right when he advised knowing yourself. If you know that delay in your case may mean nothing done that you planned to do, then don't delay. Then we usually have as much time now as we ever had, in the busy time in which we live. Did you ever notice that?)

U. S. farm goals for 1943 call for slaughter of enough sheep and lambs to keep a man counting one a second, 8 hours a day, for 27 months.

Fayette County Shepherd's Club

The early laws of the kingdom also stipulated that the owners of large flocks should be allowed a path of ninety paces width through all enclosed lands. With the repeal of these laws and consequent prohibition of seasonal migration, the Spanish shepherd blanketed his sheep through colder months; his object being that of keeping an equitable temperature thus producing a more uniform and higher quality product.

Therefore, it can hardly be said that domestic sheep are indigenous to any one country, for they appear to have been cultivated by the earliest peoples in history, and they have gradually spread over the entire face of the globe with the extension of civilization itself.

It is also interesting to observe that the efforts of flock masters have for centuries been devoted to the search for methods of improving the quality and increasing the quantity of wool produced, and it is noteworthy that no satisfactory substitute for wool has ever been discovered or created in the scientific laboratory. It still retains its position as a most versatile and useful textile fiber.

Gala Junior-Senior Prom Staged in Gymnasium On Friday Evening

Unique Decorations Form Perfect Setting for Gay Affair Assembling Two Hundred High School Students

Radiantly colorful and an affair as distinctive and original as it was brilliant, the Junior-Senior Prom blazed itself an outstanding event in the social calendar of many High School Commencement seasons. The spacious gymnasium setting, ideal for such, framed an assemblage of two hundred Juniors and Seniors, the entertainers and the entertained.

The girls in evening gowns of rainbow hues formed an unforgettable picture of youth and beauty in the lovely setting, with a black and white theme used in the entire decorating. The two colors were used in every way possible, from the dance programs to the most minute detail.

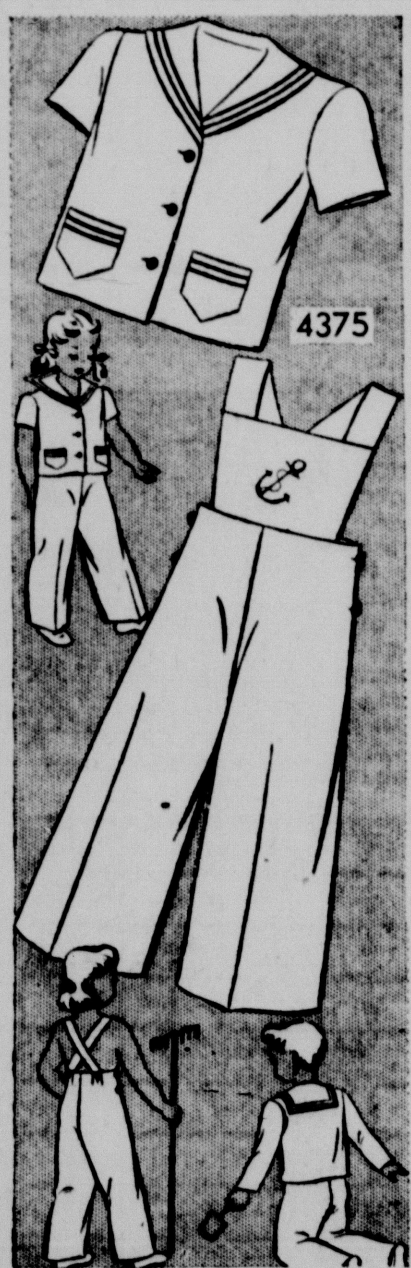

The entire walls of the spacious room, were covered with white, and attracting the attention of each guest, as they arrived were the life-size silhouettes encircling the room, the female figures all in long flowing gowns and holding real bouquets of spring flowers. The silhouettes were of Miss Sara Keck, Miss Kay Shockey, Miss Gloria Butters, Miss Wilma Wright, Miss Jane Pittenger, Steve Kellough, Bill Rudduck and M. J. Whitfield II.

Tiered drops of white covered each of the windows where immense baskets of iris, spirea and tulips in alternating arrangement, were most effective. Overhead white cloth was draped in cloud effect and at one end of room was the band shell, where bright green grass was bordered with a white picket fence, intertwined with black streamers. Above the orchestra, black and white streamers hung from the center back to each post at the corner of the platform. Forming a background, were two silhouette figures on white, one of a trombonist and another of a trumpet player, with the huge black letters "JU-SENA" centering it.

A popular place during the evening was the "punch bar" in one corner, covered with black and white streamers on which were painted the large letters "DIP INN". Black and white table cloths covered the small tables placed around the dance floor, with white colored and white porch chairs, swings and other comfortable seating, adding attractive notes to the setting.

At intermission a program progressed with great success, delighting the eye and senses. The spotlight turned on these acts made the table doubly colorful.

Surprise Given Mrs. Black by WSCS Ladies

Mrs. Lawrence Black graciously opened her home to the Sugar Grove WSCS for their regular meeting with Mrs. M. N. Black, the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Louis Babb conducted the devotional period followed by the business session led by Mrs. Charles Hoppes, president. A box to the Ethel Sharp Childrens Home in Georgia was planned for the near future. Quite a number of letters were read from our boys in service and a report of the District meeting was given.

Mrs. Florence Bethards was program chairman, choosing "Mother" as the topic. The program was most enjoyably presented, with several musical number and readings given.

Refreshments were served late in the afternoon, and adding to the pleasures was the birthday surprise given to Mrs. M. N. Black. A beautifully decorated cake, lighted with candles, was presented to her, with the group singing, "Happy Birthday" and then showered her with cards and handkerchiefs.

Eleanor Horne Guest of Honor At Pretty Party

A very lovely party, intimate and exceptionally gay, was entertained by Mrs. Richard Smith at her home in Jamestown, Friday evening, for Miss Eleanor Horne, who is to be a bride of May 25th.

Garden flowers from the hostess' gardens, were arranged in the attractive home, with iris in graceful combinations, predominating. Hearts were played in this lovely setting, at the close of which the award went to the guest of honor.

A miscellaneous shower brought to Miss Horne, an array of both useful and ornamental gifts, all in colorful and pretty wrappings.

Covers for nine were laid at a beautiful dining table, where a pink and white color scheme was used in the decorations. Sweet peas of delicate pink and combined with fern, centered the table in a crystal watergarden, and was flanked by pink and white tapers in crystal holders. The dessert course featured the two colors and was delicious. The ladies lingered until a late hour prolonging the pleasures of the evening.

Mrs. W. H. Limes Is Hostess at Club Session

Iris, tulips, spirea and other spring flowers were gracefully arranged throughout the lovely home of Mrs. W. H. Limes, when she charmingly filled the role of hostess to her bridge club Friday afternoon.

Adding a delightful note, was the including of three guests, Mrs. Walter O'Brien, Mrs. Loren

Toledo Author Pens Book For Small Children

Of interest to many here is Toledo's newest author, who comes by her talent naturally, Miss Eleanor McCrea, daughter of the late Mr. Carroll McCrea, member of The Blade editorial staff for many years, and a former city editor of the Washington C. H. Record-Republican.

Miss McCrea has just marketed a book for younger children. Concerning the doings of one "Abba Kadaba," the volume, in verse, tells of the mischievous behavior of the pixie-like title character.

Illustrated in intriguing fashion by Elizabeth Farley, of the Toledo Museum of Art, in original pen and ink sketches, the book is the result of a sudden inspiration experienced by Miss McCrea.

"I woke up one night with the rhyme running through my mind," she said, "and sat down and wrote the whole thing just like that."

Always interested in writing and not without success, Miss McCrea is now planning a book for fall publication. She has marketed verse, short prose and stories since she was 15.

She scoffs at rules and regulations for being a successful writer.

"When I feel it, I write it," is her description of how to influence publishers and receive checks.

Her only adherence to any kind of fetish is to insist upon writing in longhand on an old-fashioned school pad using the stub of a pencil. Using a type-writer, or trying to, she said is a waste of time. The inspiration just doesn't come.

Miss McCrea lives with her mother and sister at 2129 1-2 Franklin Avenue. She doesn't devote any particular time to writing—just jots it down as it comes to her, then polishes it off and sends it to her publishers.

Forthcoming in the fall is not only the book but a two-part novelette for magazine publication. She is now working on the final draft of the serial.

And, says Miss McCrea, if "Abba Kadaba" bears any resemblance, real or fancied, to the Gremlins who annoy the RAF, it's purely co-incidental—she wrote of her perverse hero before the "little men" began to plague the war fliers.

TIME IS EXTENDED ON RATION STAMPS

Blue Coupons Good Until June 8, Under Ruling

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—To avert an end of the month buying rush, the Office of Price Administration today extended for one week the expiration date of blue stamps G, H and J in war ration book No. 2. They will be good through June 7.

OPA made the next three sets of blue stamps—K, L and M—good beginning Monday, May 24, and extended their expiration date from the end of June to July 7.

Blue stamps G, H, and J, which have been valid through May, and K, L and M, therefore will all be valid during a two-week overlap period from May 24 to June 7.

OPA pointed out sugar and coffee stamps would expire May 30 and 31, respectively, and cautioned shoppers against waiting to spend their stamps until May 31—Memorial Day—when stores will be closed.

MILLIONS OF WOMEN TO TAKE WAR JOBS

Third of Places Are To Be Filled Next Winter

NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—A campaign will be launched this fall to obtain 20,000,000 women to take over one third of all the war jobs by the end of the year in order to release more men for the armed services, a government official announced today.

Mrs. Mary Brewster White, manager of women's campaign of the OWI for the War Manpower Commission, told the American Association of Advertising Agencies at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel that all women over 18 who have no children under 14 years of age should apply for these war jobs at once.

COMING FEATURES AT THE THEATERS

War pictures dominate the motion picture entertainment program at the Washington C. H. theaters for next week. However, a musical or two, some comedy and a bit of mystery with the usual thrills and drama have been booked to ease the tension.

State Theater
Flaming with hatred against their beastly Nazi oppressors, the heroic guerrillas of deathless

Stalingrad in the adventure drama "The Boy from Stalingrad," is scheduled for the State Theater on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. With a cast composed almost entirely of talented juveniles, the picture reproduces the heart-rending circumstances surrounding the immortal defense of Russia's beloved city on the Volga. Also on the bill will be the musical "Follow the Band," starring Leo Carrillo, Leon Errol and the King's Men.

Action hits the pace that kills and chills in "No Place for a Lady," starring William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay, will come to the State on Wednesday and Thursday. The companion picture on the double bill is "Swamp Water," a tale of the loves and lives of the people who live deep in the mysterious swamps.

On Friday and Saturday, the State will show "Law of the Northwest," starring Charles Starrett, chapter six of "Perils of the Royal Mounted" and a cartoon.

Fayette Theater

The much-heralded picturization of John Steinbeck's book "The Moon Is Down," will come to the Fayette Theater on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Throbbing with the fury of emotions beyond words, the picture tells the gripping story of a freedom-loving people whose hopes, strength and spirit, even on the heels of the conquerors, will never be crushed. This is a tale of the invasion of Norway.

"In Which We Serve," the biography of a ship, authored, directed and produced by Noel Coward, who also is its leading player, will be the feature picture at the Fayette on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. A war picture made on the other side of the Atlantic, it combines the actuality of an exciting news reel with humanity of a great story. The story is of the life of HMS Torin, a destroyer of the Royal navy, from the time she is launched until she sinks in the Mediterranean off Crete. It also tells the story of the men who serve on her.

Another war picture will bring the week to a close at the Fayette Theater. A story of high adventure, "Manila Calling," is to come to the screen on Saturday.

POET'S CORNER

MOTHER

I have a dear old mother,
To me she's very fair,
Though her steps have grown feeble
And her form is stooped with care;
Her hair has turned to silver
But she wears a sunny smile,
For the God she loves and serves
Is with her all the while.

I can see her in the twilight
When the evening shadows fall,
Perhaps you would not call her pretty
Or scarcely fair at all.
But to me she is most lovely
When the glory lights her face,
As she talks to me of Jesus
And His wondrous saving grace.

I can see her now a-sitting
In the evening shadows dim,
And her face lights up with glory

As she talks to me of Him.
How the Lord has led and blessed her
All down through the years,
Her eyes sparkling like diamonds
Are filled with holy tears.

I can see her in the morning
As she kneels by her chair,
Her voice with emotion trembles
As she calls my name in prayer.
She asks her God to guide me
Through the coming days,
Oh, there's nothing quite so lovely
As a mother when she prays.

This little poem is dedicated to my dear Christian mother, Ellen J. Vince. Since it was composed, Mother has gone to her reward.
Her son, Albert C. Vince.

VOICE OF AUTUMN

'Twas in the somber days of a by-gone year
In the changing wood that I heard a voice which told
A tale of love that started long ago—
Of beckoning hopes and hours that passed
Even as the dew which the dawn reveals.

Heedless then I wandered on Where shadows moved and light beams showed
Midst the leaves which soon would know
The fate which the touch of autumn seals.
Then I rested in the autumn wood
Sank down by the leafy mold;
And I thought, "Oh why did I come here
Where dreams that I thought dead arise
As the wearied spirit yields,—
Into the beauty of red and gold
This flare for the passing year?"
And I said, "Oh voice of the wood!
What of the belief that I have held
That our life in death congeals?"
"Nay," said the voice, "You were but in deception
There—she dwells in the Elysian Fields.
Oh happy is she and bright her smile
As the dew which the dawn reveals."

Palace Theater
The week's bill at the Palace Theater will open with a program of contrasts. There's merriment aplenty when Joe E. Brown and Judy Canova are costarred in "Chatterbox," the first of the double feature which starts on Sunday and will remain through Tuesday. To wipe the smiles away, "The Gentle Gangster" will bring a story bootlegger who throws over his racket for the girls he loves and returns to his old life only long enough to uncover the illicit operators and bring law and order to the town he calls home.

A tense drama of family life will be unfolded on the Palace screen Wednesday and Thursday when "Man of Courage," featuring Barton MacLane and his wife, Charlotte Wynters, comes as half of another double bill. Also on the program will be Tim McCoy in "Gun Code," a thrilling tale of the rough and tumble West.

On Friday and Saturday the Palace will present Don "Red" Barry in "Days of Old Chryenne," a gripping Western drama "G-Men vs Dragon" and a color cartoon.

NAVY 'CRUISER' IS COMING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Information on WAVES and SPARS To Be Given by Regular Navy Crew

A "land cruiser" with most of the appointments and equipment of a regular ship, manned by a regular Navy crew and observing all Navy customs and regulations will be "docked" in Washington C. H. all day Tuesday. The cruiser will "anchor" at the northeast corner of Main and Court streets, at the Court House in the interest of recruiting women between the ages of 20 and 36 for the WAVES and SPARS.

There are quarters aboard the cruiser for four men, and just as they would do at sea the crew will sleep on board ship in special bunks built in the trailer, there are cooking facilities and hot and cold running water available. The crew will make calls every morning and evening and everything that is customarily done aboard a ship of Uncle Sam's Navy at sea will be observed during its visit to Washington C. H.

The main purpose of the recruiting cruiser is to make complete WAVES and SPARS information available to every woman in the vicinity of Washington C. H. The Navy needs every qualified woman between the ages of 20 and 36 who is not now engaged in vital war work to take over important shore jobs that are now being held by men. These men will then be released to join the fighting fleet at sea.

Women accepted for service in the WAVES and SPARS will be sent to Hunter College in New York City for their training period and after that will be assigned to various Navy bases and stations within the continental limits of the United States. Women are needed as stenographers, storekeepers, parachute riggers, for radio and communications work, personnel and contact positions, and the Navy Hospital Corps needs women with hospital and nursing training. In fact most every civilian job now held by women has its counterpart in the Navy.

In addition to information on WAVES and SPARS, the cruiser crew will carry complete data on the Seabees, the fighting builders of the U. S. Navy. The Seabees, phonetic contraction of Construction Battalion, build the advance and mobile bases that are so important in this global war. Men are needed between the ages of 18 and 50 who have a background in any of the various building trades and professions. These men can be enlisted in the Navy and then rated commensurate with their civilian skill.

During the afternoon and evening continuous concerts of Navy and patriotic airs will be played over the loud speaker system that is aboard the cruiser. Women and men of Washington C. H. and Fayette County are urged to come aboard and talk with the cruiser crew and to inspect the ship.

Arrangements for the cruiser's visit to Washington C. H. were recently completed with City Manager Edwin Ducey and Police Chief Jesse Ellis.

Washington C. H. is one of the first "ports" to be made on a cruise of all counties comprising the Columbus navy recruiting district and Navy personnel will be aboard at all times to answer questions and to escort citizens through the "ship."

ENTERTAINMENT FESTIVAL TO BE HERE NEXT WEEK

American Legion Post To Sponsor Carnival at Old Fairground

Prying the lid off the summer's outdoor entertainment, the American Legion Festival will open on the Old Fairground, Columbus Avenue, Monday for a six-day run.

This has come to be almost an annual event for the Legion post here. Arrangements have been made with the F. E. Gooding Amusement Co., to bring in the assortment of rides and shows and midway concessions for the week.

Proceeds from the Festival are to be added to the Legion Post's fund for the purchase of its new home. An option has been taken on what originally was the Knights of Pythias Hall, now occupied by the Moose Lodge, on North Fayette Street.

Members of the Legion have been named on committees to cooperate with the Gooding personnel in the management of the Festival as in former years. Among the attractions will be the "rolloplane ride," which Gooding himself described as "something new for the public." And, while merry-go-rounds are almost older than any other form of carnival entertainment, the Gooding equipment allotted for the Washington C. H. Festival includes a "new streamlined merry-go-round which was described as the most beautiful portable machine of its kind in the world today."

Gooding gave assurance that "our amusements will be clean and wholesome" and then added: "of course, you know our history as far as the Fayette County Fair and Washington C. H. is concerned—we have supplied amusements in that locality on a great many occasions for the last 40 years."

The Legion committee said there would be 30 assorted amusements and was especially pleased at being able to sponsor the Festival while the equipment, the rides in particular, are fresh from the winter's rebuilding.

Admission to the grounds, it was said, is free and a special children's 5 cent matinee has been arranged for the closing day.

GERMAN RAIDERS AGAIN DEFIED BY MISSIONARY

Sister of Washington C. H. Minister Who Survived ZamZam Sinking Returns

Miss Margaret L. Thompson, a sister of Rev. C. S. Thompson, pastor of the Washington C. H. Methodist Parish, today is on her way to Africa as a missionary again.

Miss Thompson was one of the survivors of the liner ZamZam which was sunk in the South Atlantic April 17, 1941, by a German surface raider. She was then on her way to a missionary post in the Belgian Congo of Africa. She and the other survivors of the ZamZam were picked up by the raider and landed at a port in Nazi-held France. The three who were injured in the attack were kept aboard the raider in the ship's hospital. Miss Thompson said she understood, and later lost when it was sunk.

Miss Thompson, along with most of the other ZamZam survivors were sent back home by the Germans through Spain and Portugal, arriving here three months later. That was before the United States was at war with the Axis powers.

Now she has started another attempt to reach her destination, almost two years after the first one ended in disaster. She is serving under the National Holiness Missionary Society.

Her itinerary is of necessity clothed in the secrecy of voluntary censorship, but Rev. Thompson said the first part of the journey would be by ship to South America, the second by train to another port of embarkation, the third the trans-Atlantic voyage and the fourth the overland trip into the heart of darkest Africa, the Belgian Congo.

One her return to America, Miss Thompson spoke to the congregations of most of the churches in her brother's parish. She told of her harrowing experiences and of her hopes for spreading the gospel among the savages. She had many friends who have wished her a safe journey through her brother.

Since her return, she has been at her old home at Monroe, a little village near Middletown.

R. C. KYLE SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA AT 80

Connected With Wonder Stove Co. Here 30 Years Ago

R. C. Kyle, who was connected with the old Wonder Stove Co. here about 30 years ago, died at the age of 80 years at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph T. Hershberger in Columbus last Wednesday, friends here have just learned.

He had been ill for the past four weeks and bronchial pneumonia was given as the direct cause of his death. He was a native of Millroy, Pa.

Burial was in the Silent Home Cemetery in Columbus.

The Kyle family moved to Washington C. H. about 1910, old friends recalled and lived here for five or six years. The two sons, Kenneth and Donald and one daughter, Hilda, went to the Washington C. H. schools. Kenneth was remembered as one of the stars of the WHS football team. The family moved to Lancaster, and later to Columbus, before Donald and Hilda had completed their high school courses.

In Columbus, Mr. Kyle turned to real estate and as operator of the Kyle Realty Co., was in that business for 25 years before his death. Mrs. Kyle died several years ago. Besides the two sons both of whom live in Cleveland now, and Mrs. Hershberger, he is survived by seven grand children and three great grand children.

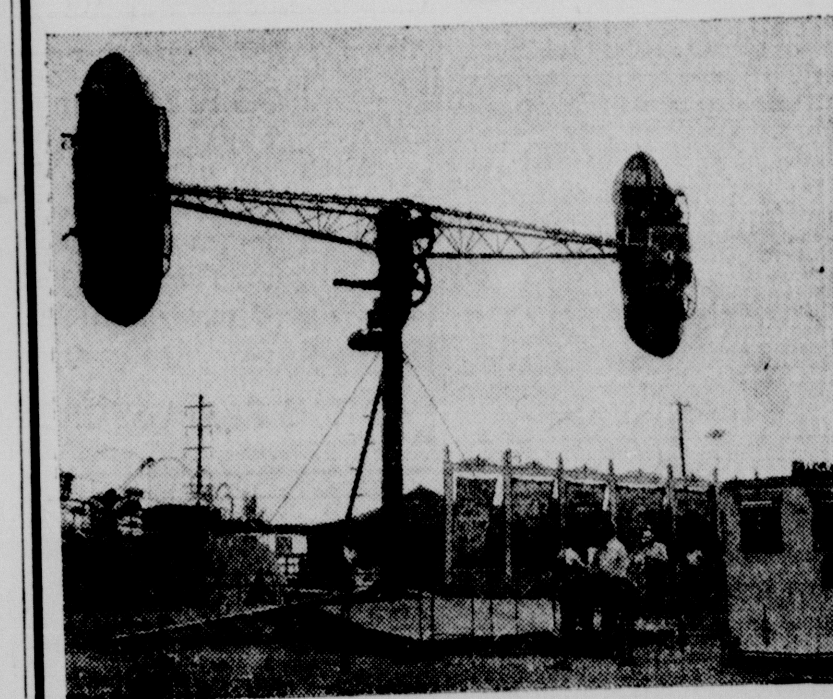

The Union Stockyards now occupy the remodeled building that once housed the Wonder Stove Co. and its foundry.
